Wrist Exercises

The following exercises will help to improve the movement in your wrists. Carry out 10 times each, 3 times per day. Put the palms of your hands together, with your fingers pointing upwards. Keeping your fingers together gently lift your elbows out to the side until you feel the stretch over the front of your wrists.

Place your elbow on the table and twist your hand and forearm clockwise and anti-clockwise.

Resting your forearm on a table, with your wrists free over the edge, bend and straighten your wrists as far as you can 10 times, then bend your wrists from side to side, then rotate your wrists in circles. Keep your forearms in contact with the table.
